A search filter for "Filter by case title" is also present. The results are displayed in a list format, showing "1 - 10 of over 1000" items. The current page is 10, with options for 20 or 50 items per page. The results are sorted by "most recent". The first result is a case study titled "To tender or not: an investor's dilemma in the first hostile takeover in Indian IT services industry" by Mayank Joshipura and Vasant Sivaraman, published on 8 December 2022. The abstract states: "The learning outcomes of this study are as follows: 1. Learn to analyze a hostile takeover bid from the perspectives of the acquirer, target firm's management and a large...". The case study is available in HTML and PDF (704 KB) formats, and teaching notes are available. A "View access options" button is also present. On the right side, there is a "Show" section with filters for "Only content I have access to" and "Only show cases with teaching notes". The abstract text reads: "The learning objectives of this case include: • Outline the brand repositioning approaches that Equity Bank used in its various stages of growth. • Identify the impact of Equity's brand repositioning in supporting its growth. • Develop a brand repositioning framework for Equity bank as a fintech. • Identify the theoretical frameworks that informed Equity's brand repositioning during the various growth stages. • Suggest a theoretical framework that would help Equity to reposition the new brand in the market." Below the abstract is the "Case overview/synopsis" section, which states: "In March 2020, the Government of Kenya declared a lockdown to slow down the spread of the Covid-19 pandemic. The lockdown of entire economic sectors put pressure on the adoption of technology to deliver services such as education, training and financial services.
